

Data Sources on the Web

Data Sources on the Web is an online library resource guide (or LibGuide) that provides access to a variety of sources of statistical and other types of data that are available online through government agencies and departments, inter-governmental organizations, and non-governmental institutions. The guide includes data sources related to Business & Economics, Criminal Justice, Education, Health, Political Science, and other subjects. Additional data sources for current topics as well as new topics will be added to the guide as they are identified. The guide is located at:

<http://csu.libguides.com/webdatasources>

Faculty should feel free to include the guide address in their course Moodle site and/or syllabus if they require that students obtain relevant data for assignments.